Specialty Doctor in Oral Surgery

Special Interest in Implant Dentistry

Sandeep completed the prestigious one-to-one dental implantology course at The University of Sheffield. He is a member of the Association of Dental Implantology (ADI). Alongside his role as an Associate Dentist at DC Daniels Dental Practice, Sandeep is also a Specialty Doctor in Oral Surgery at The James Cook University Hospital.

Over the years since his qualification in 2001, he has developed and reinforced his skills in a range of clinical procedures, including routine and complex extractions, implant placement, and bone grafting. Whether it be in the general practice or hospital-based setting, Sandeep is sure to discuss all treatment options in a way that enables patients to make informed decisions.

Aside from his brilliant work in dentistry, Sandeep lives with his lovely family – Sandeep’s wife, also a dentist with whom he shares a mutual appreciation for dentistry, and their daughter. If you do not see him in practice, rest assured you will find Sandeep enjoying his travels, supporting his favourite cricket team, reading, or spending time with his family.

Sandeep’s passion for dentistry stems from his early days in India, where he gained valuable clinical skills and training serving a high-needs population. It is there where he truly learned what it means to be a dentist, in every sense of the word. His aim from the start has been to empower patients to regain control of their dental health, and live the life they always dreamed of with a beautiful, healthy smile along the way.
